Pop artist takes on Hollywood — for charity

Are Brad Pitt and Angelina Jolie the new Adam and Eve? That's what pop artist Robert Delgadillo, also known as Rad, thinks. His portraits of Brad and Angelina and Hollywood's hottest stars are more than art for art's sake — they're raising money to combat cancer. The works were auctioned off for charity last month at LA's Kitson boutique. "Brad and Angeleve" raised tens of thousands of dollars from an anonymous collector and drew the admiration of a friend of Angelina's.

"Angie would love this," says the pal, who attended the auction. "If she were here, she'd buy it."
